Summary

We have considered the outcome of our most recent diversity survey. Whilst the results do not reflect substantial diversity in terms of faith and ethnicity, we do feel that this is representative of the communities from which our people base is drawn. The results confirm the gender balance in our workforce identified elsewhere, as well as a significant age mix. The results in relation to neurodiversity are as expected. We recognise the unique strengths and perspectives that our neurodivergent employees bring to our workforce and aim to implement accessible workplace policies while fostering continual education of our teams. We remain committed to a policy of Inclusion with equal opportunities to all in both recruitment and internal progression.
